Caring for those who care

Why Study at UCSH

Want to study a degree from one of Australia's top universities for those working in the care economy? Enjoy a world-class education from the University of Canberra with all the benefits of living in Sydney.

The University of Canberra Sydney Hills (UCSH) is a modern campus in Castle Hill, offering domestic and international students undergraduate and postgraduate qualifications in health and education. Conveniently located in Sydney's northwest—just 9 km from Parramatta, 18 km from Chatswood, and 30 km from the CBD—the campus is within walking distance of cafes, restaurants, shops, and public transport. With the new Metro line connecting Castle Hill directly to the CBD, students now enjoy even faster and easier access to the campus.

The Sydney Hills, with Norwest Business Park at its heart, is one of Sydney's fastest-growing business hubs. With a rapidly expanding economy, it is becoming an elite service centre for professional and financial services supporting companies across Western Sydney.

The area offers a major employment node close to brand-new homes and planned neighbourhoods, some of the state's top schools, and a relaxed lifestyle surrounded by parks, gardens and bushland. Castle Hill itself boasts a vibrant community with bustling markets, local cafes, and a rich history that blends modern living with heritage charm.

The Hills Shire's top employment sectors

Health Care and Social Assistance, along with Education and Training, have experienced the strongest growth in recent years. Health Care and Social Assistance is the Shire's largest employment sector, supporting approximately 12,192 jobs, while Education and Training ranks fifth, providing around 6,556 jobs.*
